ASKHAM GRANGE WOMEN'S PRISON MULTI-FAITH CHAPEL, YORK

The Five Elements (5 windows each 0.5m x 0.6m) 2011

The Five Elements have been the basis of an understanding of the natural and spiritual world for thousands of years. The elements have also been a tool for attempting to understand how human beings fit into the world; the concept of the elements is not confined to one culture, but rather is universal and as such is apposite for all faiths and cultures.

Helen Whittaker has utilized this idea within the stained glass of the chapel using differing colours to represent the elements: Fire, Earth, Air, Water and Ether (Spirit).
